IT MIGHT BE FUN AND EXCITING, BUT WHEN IT COMES TO THE BEAUTY STAKES, GLOBETROTTING CAN BE LESS THAN FLATTERING. WORDS BY RICKY ALLEN

Have you ever arrived at your destination after a flight and your hair is either standing on end or stuck to your scalp? Your eyes look like red light-bulbs and your face looks like a Halloween mask gone wrong as your supposedly 'waterproof' makeup wears off in odd patches? Not anymore. We have sourced the secret products that will allow you to travel like a celebrity.

If you are traveling from a winter to summer climate, get a head start on your colour with Sally Hansen Airbrush Shimmer (due out in September) for legs and arms. Applying it the day before you arrive will allow you to blend in with the locals, while you wait for the sun to do its work. You could also try Elizabeth Arden Bronzing Shimmer Powder for a golden glow before you go.

Gatineau has put together the perfect travel kit with all the skin's necessities in a great travel bag. It even contains a spot 'zapper', which works beautifully.

When it comes to travel, Crabtree & Evelyn are the experts, offering travel kits to match all their fragrances. A great one is the La Source Weekender, containing body wash, body lotion, shampoo and conditioner. It also recently introduced a range of travel wallets, luggage tags and makeup purses in a rainbow of colours. My favourite is the fuchsia pink set.

For the traveller who wants to pretend first class is 'slumming it' (what's a girl to do when her private jet breaks down?), Lancôme has an elegant eye makeup kit Pop Cherub Palette containing five beautiful colours in a silver case, or Dior's LipShow Palette also in a silver case.

And of course, this well-heeled, globetrotting traveller wouldn't be seen without her Carita travel bag containing shampoo, hair mask, cleanser, moisturiser and body hydrator. She would also have her Moisturising Lip and Nail Balm by YSL or YSL's Radiant Touch (the ultimate product for lighting up even the most tired face). A Radiant Touch is sold somewhere in the world every two minutes, so it's safe to say it must be doing its job.

And don't forget your Cutex Moisture Guard Nail Polish Remover Wipes eliminate chipped nails with no fuss and its 3 in 1 Strengthener – a must for the travelling nails.

Other useful products include Dermalogica's Shine Therapy Shampoo and Conditioner, which comes in a handy travel size, while Wella's Biotouch Extra Rich Instant Repair Ampoules leave-in conditioner allows you to treat your hair on-the-go.

MD Moisture Defense Crème, Timexpert Wrinkle Correcting Treatment by Germaine De Capuccini, Khie's Ultra Tinted Facial Moisturiser SPF 15, YSL Lisse Expert Gel patch Targeted Anti Wrinkle Night Treatment, SKII Facial Treatment Mask and Olay Facial Treatment Mask all offer your skin the extra nourishment and hydration that you need when travelling and beyond. bella
